

Town of Ogden, NY – Open Space Plan (Adopted 2006)

Behan Planning assisted the Town of Ogden in developing an open space plan for the town and in facilitating the corresponding public participation process. Major elements of the process included a community wide “visioning” session and focus group meetings with key stakeholders, such as the agricultural community and an emerging grass roots group focused on trails.

The draft plan highlights and recognizes the unique rural character, sense of place, and history of the Ogden community. It also focuses specifically on key actions that can be executed to protect the town’s open space resources best meet the town’s open space goals.
